Curse of the Mummy's Tomb is a boardgame for 1-4 players, published by Games Workshop and designed by Stephen Hand. It features a three dimensional board, representing an Egyptian pyramid, with two consecutively smaller playing areas above the bottom board.

The aim of the game is to reach the top of the fictional Pyramid of Khonsu, accessible only from the top tiered board, complete the tasks within and obtain the mythical Elixir of Life.

In addition to traps, creatures and treasures found by exploring the board, there is the Mummy itself, which moves around the board. The Mummy's movement is controlled by the players, by a bidding system. Encountering the Mummy is generally detrimental to the player's chances of winning the game.
